

Hilaire Belloc

This, That, and the Other

By Hilaire Belloc (1870-1953)

“When Fame comes upon a man well before death then must he most particularly beware of it, for is it then most dangerous. Neither must he, having achieved it, relax effort nor (a much greater peril) think he has done his work because some Fame now attaches thereto.” -- Hilaire Belloc

Total running time: 06:30:27. Read by Ray Clare & Tadhg. Book Coordinator: Ray Clare. Dedicated Proof-Listener: mim@can. Meta-Cordinator/Cataloging: Annise.

This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org.

Author photo is a press photograph from the George Grantham Bain collection, which was purchased by the Library of Congress in 1948. According to the library, there are no known restrictions on the use of these photos. Cover image by Peter Griffin <http://www.publicdomainpictures.net/view-image.php?image=11779&picture=brick-wall>. Cover design by Janette Brown. This design is in the public domain.

This, That, and the Other

This, That, and the Other

Hilaire Belloc